

How to survive

inspired by The Hunger Games

1. Work together

Surviving is never an easy thing. Not to mention survive only by yourself. Finding a trustworthy teammate is always a clever choice. In the games, there are so many things that can kill you (or lead you to die), like attacked by other tribute, encounter deadly animal, eating the wrong herbs...Some may seem trivial, but when you are alone...It's really hard to say.

Another thing in the games that are very likely to kill you, is the game mechanics(like the unpredicted weather in real life). Finding how it works is crucial for your survival, and that's when teammate matter most, with teammate, that means you are likely to have more information = more chance to figure out and survive.

2. Stay low-key (hide yourself)

Well...somehow, unfortunately you are alone...Then you'd better not too show off ! Stay low-key, and watch how things go, even if you are not in a good position right now, as long as you are alive, there is always a possibility.

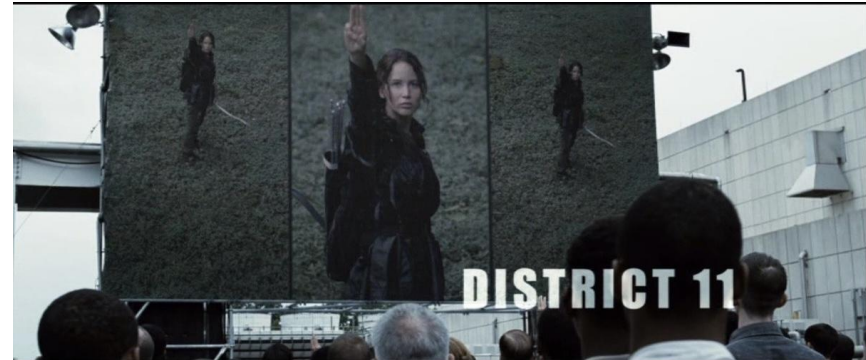

In the games, Peeta uses his decorating skill to camouflage himself with the environment, hiding from Career tributes, and waiting until he meets Katniss.

3. Have faith in you !

The most powerful thing is within you. There is nothing you can't achieve as long as you are fully committed.

Katniss had been through so much...from her poor childhood, her father's death, to now, The Hunger Games. All those things that could easily broken a little girl's heart, but she somehow managed. I think deep down her heart, she knew she was a born survivor, and at the moment she volunteered as tribute, she had made up her mind, that she was going to come back alive and see her sister, her mother again.

Thank you~
